Location: Kercem is a secluded village, only a short distance from the Island's capital, Victoria. Its origins are ancient; in fact, the village and the outlying countryside are home to several antiquities, and the source of much Gozitan folklore. Il-Mixta hill nearby is thought to be the site of the first human habitation of the Maltese Islands. In the village, you can see the remnants of its ancient past - an old windmill cum defensive tower; and some stone balconies depicting the oriental crescent or half-moon. The parish church is relatively recent replacement (1851) of an older chapel. The nearby Lunzjata valley was once a hunting ground for the Knights. In the valley is the Chapel of the Annunciation, tucked under a cliff. It is one of the most ancient in Gozo and dates back to 1347. BELS Residence is only a 7 minute walk away from the school.

Whilst we have made every effort to make your stay with a BELS host family as enjoyable and pleasant as possible, we advise you, in case you experience any difficulty, to contact our Administration Department who are ready to assist and guide you in the best possible way.

Thank you.
